that Garfield, while estensibly favorposed to lukewarmness. It can his story as follows, which was suthardly be expected that Conkling, stantiated by other persons: Cameron and Logan, with the large Grant following in the convention, will be particularly auxious to heart i'v help one who worked against them and their candidate from first to last, and if Blains and Shermao shall manifest a don't-care spirit also, the case of the republican nominee will be gad. Colonel McClure, of the Philadelphia Times, seldom goes far astray in his political prognostications; and it will be remembered that on the day succeeding the Chicago convention he telegraphed to his of republican rule. We shall see,

AT THE Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, a new departure has teen taken in the matter of conferring degrees upon the graduates. The trustees have cast aside the antiquated idea that a coilege is a machine which can turn out in four years after a certain pattern, graduates of similar attainments, and have thrown the responsitility of the time of graduation upon the student. That is, they have abandoned the traditional four years' course, and propose to graduate the sto 'ent when he arrives at a certain standard of proficiency, regardless of the time required. The idea is rational, though it may not become popular with other colleges. There is no good reason for requiring before graduation, a certain machine routine for so many years. If the student shall show the required proficiency in two years, he ought not to be compelled to linger two years more before he can be graduated. In the Johns Hopkins University various courses of study are provided, by which each student will be required with method and system to pursue such studies as his bent and capacity may indicate as best, while by special application and unusual trary to expectation the river rose industry his graduation day may be above, however, and a decline looked adopted as an experiment, and it is worthy the attention of educators. It certainly offers an incentive to industry on the part of the student, and promotes his individuality,

Some or the republican editors are counting on large gains in their congressional representation by reason of the apportionment to be made under the new census. The Congress to be gress will be elected under it. It is true the apportionment will transfer has been crowned. the political power in this country. but the transfer will not be from the democrats to the republicans; it will be from the east to the west and southwest. Hereafter New York and the east must take second places, as made a speech at the Yaie alumni meeting this afternoon, in the course of which he said: You will perhaps required, and large gains made in the should be the incumbent of the prefixed and large gains made in the should be the incumbent of the president and decision as to who should be the incumbent of the president and decision. reduced, and large gains made in the west and democratic southwest. But aren should the number of congressmen be increased in accordance with the increased in accordance with the increased population, the basis of representation being left as at present, the strong republican section in the east would gain very few, while the doubtful west and northwest would run up wonderfully, and the democratic southwest be more than doubted. Under the new apportionment the democrate may gain nothing in the south, but ten or twelve more members will have to be allot. ment the democrats may gain nothing in the south, but ten or twelve more members will have to be allotted to Texas, one or two to Arkaness, four or five to Missouri, and three or four to Hinois, all democratic. Though the northwestern states will, under the new order, help the republicans in Congress, the losses in the east will about equalize the matter, still leaving the democrats in the majority. The same rule will apply to the presidential election in 1884. There will then be a largely increased electoral vote, coming from the west and northwest. But this must necessarily be to the aivantage of the democrats, for the reason that after the 4th of March next they will have working in their interest the hundred thours and federal officials who are now laboring for the success of the republican party. The government patronage is no small factor in the diraction and control of the politics of the conntry. It is sufficient in itself to change the politics of same of the clear sky the thought of Yale and the venerable president whom we almost words and series of the confidence of the southern people. I found no great political leader suggesting that this course might possibly lead to a solution of difficulties. While I was ponciering what to do and what course to pursue, there came to me like a flash from the clear sky the thought of Yale and the venerable president whom we almost worship. (Applause.) Without drifting into a speech I will say it worte him and then followed impolitively prosident Wooley's advice. > About two months ago I was confined to my bed, and expected each day would be my last, when the dear Lord sent Mra Johnson to me, through whom I have been able to be up and about town. Indeed, my wife and I were preparing to go to Camp Tabar for a few weeks, and I had two checks on the First National Bank, which I had held for two or three weeks, because they were drawn by good men. On the Monday previous to the failure of that institution I found myself strong enough to go out, and I went up town and had them cached. I thank God for that, too.
